

27th International Conference on Low Temperature Physics - Buenos Aires, 6 - 13 August 2014

Dear colleagues

We are writing to request your support for LT27 by encouraging your attendance and that of your colleagues and students.

As you probably know already, this is the first LT Conference to be held in the Southern Hemisphere. Global promotion of Low Temperature Physics is a priority of IUPAP and is essential to the future of our field. The triennial LT conference series is the flagship conference of IUPAP C5, and has a long and distinguished tradition.

The local organizers are aware of the high travel costs to Buenos Aires, and agree to partially mitigate this by maintaining the early fees - 600 USD for full participants and USD 300 for PhD students - up to July 1st [a cash refund will be handed at the Conference desk to those who have already paid the late registration fee].

If you and your research group have been uncertain about attending LT27, we do urge you to support the meeting by your attendance. A high level of participation in LT27 will greatly contribute to the unity of the global Low Temperature Physics community and strengthen its influence.

Yours Sincerely,
Susana Hernandez, Chair of LT27
Kimitoshi Kono, Chair of IUPAP C5
<http://lt27.df.uba.ar>

Institutional Sponsors

Department of Physics of the University of Buenos Aires and Institute of Physics of Buenos Aires - CONICET.